ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFFS

UNITED STATE DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON

MARIA OLIVERA-SUAREZ and
ALFONSO OLIVERA B.,
Plaintiffs,
vs.
UNITED STATES,
Defendant.

Case No.: _____

COMPLAINT FOR MEDICAL NEGLIGENCE

COME NOW Plaintiffs, by and through their attorney of record, John
Ferguson, and for causes of action against Defendant, allege as follows:

I. IDENTIFICATION OF PARTIES

1.1. Plaintiffs MARIA OLIVERA-SUAREZ (a.k.a. MARIA OLIVERA) and ALFONSO OLIVERA B., husband and wife at all material times herein, bring this medical malpractice action against the Defendant. At all material times herein, Plaintiffs were residents of the State of Washington and residing in Yakima County. (Herein, Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA-SUAREZ will at times be called “MARIA OLIVERA” or “Mrs. Olivera.”)

1 1.2. At all material times, Defendant UNITED STATES is and was the 2 sovereign government of the United States of America.

3 II. FEDERAL SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5 2.1. Certain of the healthcare alleged herein to have been negligent was 6 rendered by certain individuals (including Dr. John Naiden) who were acting 7 within the course and scope of their employment or other agency relationship with 8 Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic (“YVFWC”) at the time that they rendered
9 their healthcare to Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA. On the basis of representations
10 made by the Office of General Counsel at the U.S. Department of Health and 11 Human Services, Plaintiffs allege that at all relevant times herein: (a) YVFWC
12 was and is a covered Community Health Center under the Federally Supported 13 Health Centers Assistance Acts (“FSHCAA”), (b) the acts and omissions of the 14 employees, contractors, and other agents (jointly, “employees”) of YVFWC in 15 relation to Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA were done in the course and scope of 16 those employees’ employment or other agency relationship with YVFWC and 17 were and are “covered activities” under the FSHCAA, and (c) both YVFWC and 18 its employees rendering care to Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA had and have 19 “deemed status” as U.S. Public Health Service employees and so are entitled to 20
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 the protections of the FTCA.¹ At all material times herein, Defendant UNITED 2 STATES acted by and through YVFWC and its FTCA-covered employees. If 3 Defendant UNITED STATES were a private person, it would be liable to 4 Plaintiffs under the laws of the State of Washington. Under the applicable law,
5 neither YVFWC nor any of its FTCA-covered employees may be sued
6 individually, but rather suit for their acts and omissions must be brought against
7 the United States in federal district court. 42 U.S.C. §§ 233, 254b; 28 U.S.C. §§
8 1346, 2679. Thus, jurisdiction is proper in this Court.

12 2.2. Plaintiffs presented an administrative claim to the U.S. Department of 13 Health and Human Services within two years of the acts alleged in this Complaint.
14 More than six months have elapsed since presentation of the claim but not more 15 than six months have elapsed after any denial of the administrative claim. Thus,
16 Plaintiffs have exhausted their administrative remedies under 28 U.S.C. § 2675(a),
17 and this action is timely under 28 U.S.C. § 2401.

22 ¹ The Federally Supported Health Centers Assistance Acts of 1992 (Pub. L. 102-
23 501) and 1995 (Pub. L. 104-73) extend Federal Tort Claims Act (“FTCA”)
24 protections under 28 U.S.C. 1346(b), 2401(b), and 2679-81 to eligible health
25 centers funded under the Health Center Program, section 330 of the Public Health
26 Services Act (42 U.S.C. 254b), as amended.
27
28

1 2.3. The events that give rise to this lawsuit occurred in Yakima County,
2 Washington, in the judicial district for the United States District Court, Eastern
3 District of Washington. At all material times, Plaintiffs were and are residents of 4 Yakima County. Thus, venue is proper in this Court. 28 U.S.C. § 1402(b).

6 III. FACTS²

8 3.1. On December 21, 2015, Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA (then age 71)
9 underwent an elective gynecological procedure (essentially a bladder sling
10 operation) for urinary stress incontinence. The procedure consisted of a 11 laparotomy to remove a possible remaining ovary, a paravaginal repair done
12 abdominally, and then an anterior repair, transobturator tape placement, posterior
13 repair, and vaginal vault fixation done vaginally. The surgery was performed at 14 Yakima Valley Memorial Hospital (“YVMH,” now known as “Virginia Mason
15 Memorial”) and was conducted by Dr. John Naiden, assisted by Dr. Michelle 16 Eston (apparently a second-year resident with the University of Washington
17 Obstetrics & Gynecology Residency Program at the time). All acts of Dr. Eston

23 ² A number of the facts alleged herein are based on the entries in the medical 24 records. If the facts turn out to be different than as stated in the medical record
25 entries, Plaintiffs reserve the right to amend their Complaint to conform to those 26 facts.

1 were directly supervised by Dr. Naiden, and he is responsible for any of her acts
2 and omissions that were negligent. The operating surgeons unknowingly injured
3 Mrs. Olivera's rectum during the procedure and closed her without becoming 4 aware of the injury. Despite the undiagnosed injury, Mrs. Olivera had minimal 5 pain after the surgery, which was controlled with minimal pain medication, and 6 she was discharged home in stable condition on December 23 (two days post-
7 surgery).

10 3.2. However, Mrs. Olivera returned the day after discharge and presented 11 to the Emergency Department at YVMH at about 8:00 p.m., with the Presenting 12 Problems of "Fever, Abdominal Pain." She was febrile (38.8°C), tachypneic (RR 13 28), and tachycardic (HR 111). Her oxygen saturation on room air was in the mid-
14 to-high 80s, with some readings in the low 90s. She was admitted to the general
15 floor with the diagnoses of "Healthcare Associated vs. Ventilator
16 Acquired/Associated Pneumonia, with associated Sepsis and Acute Hypoxic
17 Respiratory Failure." A two-view chest x-ray obtained about 8:00 a.m. the next 18 morning (December 25) did not show pneumonia but did show a small quantity of 19 intraperitoneal free air subjacent to the right hemidiaphragm, which the 20 interpreting radiologist stated was "hopefully related to the patient's stated prior 21 history of recent surgery," but he nonetheless recommended clinical correlation
22 "to exclude a bowel perforation." A CT Pulmonary Angiogram showed 23
25
26
27
28

1 intraperitoneal free air subjacent to both hemidiaphragms and in addition showed 2 intraperitoneal free fluid adjacent to the right lobe of the liver and subjacent to the 3 right hemidiaphragm, and that radiologist also recommended clinical correlation.

5 3.3. Within 24 hours of her readmission, Dr. Naiden was notified that his 6 patient had been readmitted. Over the next six days as she failed to improve and 7 indeed her condition worsened, Mrs. Olivera was seen by ENRIQUE JIMENEZ, 8 M.D., AND JACOB JOY, M.D., as well as by other actual or ostensible agents of 9 YVMH. According to the medical records, Dr. Naiden did not go in to see Mrs.
10 Olivera until December 29, four days after being notified of her readmission. On 11 December 31, plans were in place to discharge Mrs. Olivera home that day or the 12 next, over the family's strong objections that she had been continually getting 13 worse, not better. During this entire period of time, the treating healthcare
14 providers never investigated for a potential bowel perforation, despite signs, 15 symptoms, and findings requiring, under the applicable standard of care, that such 16 an investigation be undertaken.
17
18
19 20

22 3.4. In the mid-afternoon of December 31, before the healthcare providers
23 could discharge Mrs. Olivera home, she decompensated, leading to the Rapid 24 Response Team being called and ultimately to CT scanning of the abdomen and 25 pelvis, which revealed multiple air-fluid pockets in the abdomen, a pelvis that was 26 suspicious for bowel perforation, a pocket of fluid and debris located in the 27
28

1 midpelvic region in an interloop location that was thought to represent either
2 abscess or leaking bowel contents or perhaps a retained sponge, and a “markedly 3 distended” stomach and moderately dilated loops of small bowel with 4 decompressed distal small bowel and colon, suggestive of small bowel
5 obstruction. This led to a surgical consult and then surgery that evening, described 6 as exploratory laparotomy, sigmoid colon resection, mobilization of splenic
7 flexure, placement of negative-pressure wound therapy dressing greater than 50
8 square centimeters, and right internal jugular central venous catheter placement.
9 The Operative Report describes that immediately upon entering the abdomen,
10 there was a large amount of frank stool. As the small bowel began to be 11 mobilized, there were multiple fluid pockets. As the pelvis was entered, again 12 there was frank stool. A hole in the rectum was identified, but the tissue was 13 friable and not amenable to primary repair. Due to the frank intraabdominal 14 contamination, the surgeons resected the sigmoid colon and then attempted to 15 bring up the colostomy. However, the surgeons were unable to close the fascia, 16 and the patient was kept in discontinuity and an ABThera wound VAC was 17 placed. Upon completion of the surgery, Mrs. Olivera was transferred to the ICU
18 in critical condition. Thereafter while at YVMH, she underwent a tortuous 19 medical course consisting of multiple surgeries and procedures for multiple 20 complications.
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 3.5. For more than a month at YVMH, the treating healthcare providers
2 were unable to effect closure of Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA's abdomen, and she 3 was transferred to Oregon Health and Science University Hospital ("OHSU") for 4 a higher level of care. Mrs. Olivera subsequently underwent numerous additional 5 and painful surgeries and procedures for multiple complications over the ensuing 6 months, both at OHSU and later at Swedish Hospital, as well a lengthy stays at 7 rehabilitation hospitals, as detailed in the medical records. At times throughout 8 this ordeal, she was near death.

11
12 3.6. Mrs. Olivera was discharged home in July 2016 with home health
13 nursing, physical therapy, and occupational therapy. At present, she has a massive 14 ventral hernia, with CT scanning showing complete loss of abdominal domain
15 with her rectus muscles retracted severely laterally and the hernia defect
16 measuring 25-28 cm. (about 10 inches). (In lay terms, although her skin is closed, 17 her fascia and muscle are not, and most of her intestines are outside of the 18 abdominal cavity. Among other things, this leads to engorgement of the visceral 19 vasculature, altered respiratory function, and loss of anterior spinal support.)
20 Corrective surgery is too risky for Mrs. Olivera, and so this condition is 21 permanent, as is her colostomy. All of the foregoing medical care and injuries and 22 other damages were directly and proximately caused by Dr. Naiden's original 23
25
26
27
28

1 surgery and the later failure to timely diagnose and appropriately treat Mrs.
2 Olivera.

3 IV. CLAIMS AGAINST DEFENDANT

5 4.1. Because of the fiduciary healthcare provider-patient relationship that
6 existed between Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA and each of Defendant's covered 7 employees who rendered healthcare services to Plaintiff, Defendant and each of 8 those covered employees owed to Mrs. Olivera a duty to comply with the standard
9 of care applicable to the profession or class to which each particular employee
10 belongs (e.g., physician, certified physician assistant, advanced registered nurse 11 practitioner, healthcare clinic, hospital, or other type of healthcare provider, as 12 may be applicable), practicing in the state of Washington. This included the duty
13 to exercise the degree of skill, care, and learning expected of a reasonably prudent
14 member of the profession or class to which the covered employee belongs, 15 including any specialization within any such profession or class, in the state of 16 Washington and acting under the same or similar circumstances and at the same
17 time of the care and/or treatment in question. With regard to YVFWC, its duty
18 included the duty to exercise the degree of skill, care, and learning expected of a 19 reasonably prudent clinic of the same type as YVFWC, in the state of Washington
20 and acting under same or similar circumstances and at the same time as the care,
21 treatment, and/or acts or omissions in question. Failure of any covered employee
22
24
25
26
27
28

1 or covered entity have exercised such skill, care, and learning constituted a breach
2 of the applicable standard of care and is negligence.

3 4.2. Defendant's covered employees, and thus Defendant, failed to obtain
4 Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA's informed consent as a patient in that Defendant
5 (through its employees) failed to inform the Plaintiff of material facts concerning 6 the risk of the procedures and other treatment referred to herein and failed to 7 inform the Plaintiff concerning the recognized possible alternative forms of 8 treatment. Plaintiff consented to Defendant's care and treatment without being 9 fully informed of such material facts. A reasonably prudent patient under similar 10 circumstances would not have consented to such care and treatment if informed of 11 such material facts. The care and treatment in question proximately caused the 12 injuries to Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA herein alleged.

13 4.3. The acts and/or omissions of Defendant in its care and treatment of 14 Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA were negligent, breached fiduciary duties, 15 constituted an impermissible failure to obtain informed consent from Plaintiff, and 16 otherwise constituted tortious conduct, and Defendant is liable to Plaintiff for such 17 acts and/or omissions under the laws of the state of Washington, including RCW
18 7.70 et seq. and other applicable law.

19 4.4. Plaintiffs hereby notify Defendant that they are pleading all theories of 20 recovery and bases for liability available pursuant to Washington state law. This 21
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 includes, but is not limited to, negligence (including negligent failure to
2 appropriately triage, investigate, evaluate, monitor, treat or not treat, diagnose,
3 intervene, test, refer, warn, supervise, and otherwise render the necessary care that 4 its patient Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA required, and including failure to 5 communicate with Plaintiff in a fashion that she could fully understand), failure to 6 obtain informed consent, lost chance of a better outcome and of avoiding the bad
7 outcome that occurred, and breach of fiduciary duties. Additional acts and/or 8 omissions with respect to the care and treatment of Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA
9 will be fully shown at the time of trial, after the completion of pre-trial discovery.
10
12

13 V. CAUSATION AND DAMAGES

14
15 5.1. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's negligence, failure to 16 obtain informed consent, breach of fiduciary duties, and other tortious conduct,
17 Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA has suffered injury and damages, including but are 18 not limited to:
19

- 20 • Past and future noneconomic damages (including pain, suffering, and 21 unimaginable agony; disability; disfigurement; loss of function; loss
22 of enjoyment of life; mental anguish and emotional distress;
23 humiliation; inconvenience; loss of society and companionship; and 24 loss of consortium);
25
26
27
28

- Past and future economic damages (including the reasonable value of medical care, treatment, and services and related expenses; lost value of domestic services; cost of home care and the value of necessary substitute domestic services and other nonmedical expenses; and lost earnings and lost earnings capacity); and
- Lost chance of a better outcome and of avoiding the bad outcome that occurred.

As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's negligence, failure to obtain informed consent, breach of fiduciary duties, and other tortious conduct, Plaintiff ALFONSO OLIVERA B. has suffered loss of spousal consortium and other injuries and damages. Damages will be proven at the time of trial in amounts as deemed reasonable and proper by the trier of fact.

VI. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for judgment against Defendant for all general and special damages caused by Defendant's acts and omissions, including but not limited to the following:

- a. For Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA for past and future noneconomic damages: $4.5 million or as may be proven by the evidence;
- b. For Plaintiff MARIA OLIVERA for past and future economic damages:

- The reasonable value of lost domestic services and cost of obtaining household assistance: $950,000 or as may be proven by the evidence;
 - The reasonable value of past and future medical and ancillary expenses: $1.2 million or as may be proven by the evidence;
 - Past and future miscellaneous expenses: $50,000 or as may be proven by the evidence;
 - Past and future lost earnings: $100,000 or as may be proven by the evidence;
- c. For Plaintiff ALFONSO OLIVERA B. for past and future loss of consortium: $500,000 or as may be proven by the evidence;
- d. For both Plaintiffs, recoverable costs of suit;
- e. For both Plaintiffs, pre- and post-judgment interest as may be allowed by law; and
- f. For both Plaintiffs, all such other relief as the Court may deem just and proper.
